VOL. XXX.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1908.

No. 77.

FORMER PRESIDENT BURIED FRIDAY.

Laid to Rest in the Cemetery at Princeton, New Jersey.

DEATH MASK TAKEN.

Imposing Ceremonies and Distinguished Honors Show by Nation.

Princeton, N. J., June 26.—At five o'clock this afternoon, the body of Princeton's distinguished citizen Grover Cleveland was lowered into the grave in the family plot in old Princeton's cemetery, where lies the body of Ruth, the first born of the Cleveland children.

Mrs. Cleveland is bearing her grief with the utmost fortitude and directed the details of the funeral.

Mr. Cleveland's body was buried in a heavy oak casket with silver handle bars. A silver plate bears this simple inscription: "Grover Cleveland, March 18, 1837—June 24, 1908."

The death mask of the former President was taken. Soon after death had occurred, Mrs. Cleveland sent for Edwin Wilson, a sculptor connected with Princeton University, and requested him to take the mask. The Princeton cemetery is located in a pretty section of the town close to the university buildings, and about a half mile from the Cleveland home. Many of the honored dead of Princeton University are buried there, and the burial grounds are known to the graduates and under-graduates of the university as the Westminster Abbey of America.

BRYAN ON CLEVELAND.

Nebraskan Pays Touching Tribute to Cleveland.

Lincoln, Neb., June 25.—The following tribute to former President Grover Cleveland was written last evening by W. J. Bryan:

"The death of ex-President Grover Cleveland brings to a sudden end the phenomenal career of one of the strongest characters known to the political world during the present generation. Like every commanding figure, he had zealous supporters and earnest opponents, but those who differed from him were as ready as his warmest friends to concede to him the possession of elements of leadership to an extraordinary degree. He was deliberate in action, firm in conviction, and ever ready to accept responsibility for what he did. Few men have exerted a more positive influence on those associated with them. We are not far enough from the period in which his work was done to measure accurately his place in history, but the qualities which made him great are a part of the nation's heritage, and universal sorrow is felt at his death."

DR. J. L. WYATT

The Cincinnati Herald and Presbyterian of this week announced the death of Rev. Dr. J. L. Wyatt, which occurred on the 15th of this month. He is survived by his wife only, no children having been born to them. He died at Longview, Ala.

Dr. Wyatt was pastor of the C. P. church here until the union of the churches, when he went first to Illinois and then to Alabama. He left many friends here.

CRUMBAUGH IS REMOVED

Loses His Position at Cincinnati, Under Serious Charge.

SERVED TEN YEARS.

Was Appointed From This City By President McKinley.

Washington, D. C., June 26.—By the order of the President, Major S. R. Crumbaugh, supervising inspector of steam vessels in the Cincinnati district, has been removed. It was charged that he violated the civil service rules. Major Crumbaugh was a popular official and was one of the oldest men in the service.

Major Crumbaugh was at one time collector of internal revenue for his district. He became involved in a wrangle with some of his subordinates and it finally resulted in the appointment of Ed. Farley, of Paducah to the position of collector.

Maj. Crumbaugh's former home was Hopkinsville. He is a man of considerable vanity. He was removed from the collectorship at Owensboro in 1883. In Hopkinsville he was at the head of an educational institution. His military was that of an important military personage. About ten years ago he was appointed supervising inspector at Cincinnati by President McKinley, which position he held until removed by President Roosevelt.

BIG FISH.

Two Six-Pound Trout Among String.

Charlie McPherson caught two trout in a pond not far from church Hill Thursday which weighed six pounds each. They were the finest specimens landed this season and were caught with hook and line. Besides the mammoth trout he also caught a good string of smaller fish.

Stuck On Hopkinsville.

Roy Moorman in the Breckinridge Democrat says: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Underwood and Mayor Chas. M. Meacham have a way of making a fellow feel like the whole town belongs to him. All the boys would have been glad to remain in Hopkinsville had it been possible.

We doff our hat to Hopkinsville, the beautiful city where genuine, old-fashioned Kentucky hospitality reigns throughout the year. Hop-town! you have won our heart. Our greatest desire is that we may again enjoy a visit to you like the one of last week.

Madisonville Gets Raise.

After July 1 the postoffices at Ashland and Madisonville, Ky., will each be allowed an additional clerk, under an order issued by the department Thursday. The postoffices at Evansville and French Lick, Ind., will also be allowed each an additional clerk on the same date.

WHOLESALE PARDON LIST

Gov. Cox Lets Out Ten Convicts in One Bunch in State Penitentiary.

ALL ILL AND CRIPPLED.

Only One of Them Was in the Penitentiary for a Life Term.

Frankfort, Ky., June 26.—Acting Gov. Cox pardoned ten convicts as a result of a recent visit to the penitentiary. Nine are crippled or blind. This is the largest number of convicts pardoned at one time in the last thirty years, or since Gov. Blackburn turned loose 150 at one time. The pardons were granted at the instance of Col. E. E. Mudd, the Warden, and Joseph Barr, the prison physician, and Gov. Cox when he made a short talk to the pardoned convicts yesterday afternoon told them that their release was due to kindness of heart of the Warden and the physician.

The Governor is considering the cases of several other convicts who are ill or crippled and probably will issue more pardons.

THE PARDON LIST

The following is a list of the men who were pardoned:

Frank Judy, sent from Clark county in 1907, for four years, on a charge of house-breaking.

James Crouch, sent from Owensley county in 1907, on a charge of house-breaking for two years.

Charles H. Slattery, sent from Jefferson county in 1903 for ten years on a charge of house-breaking.

George West, sent from Jefferson county in 1904 for life, upon third conviction, on a charge of malicious cutting.

BIG SOCIETY OF EQUITY RALLY FOR JULY 6.

SUIT DISMISSED IN SMITH CASE

The Legal Tangle is Simplified By Judge T. P. Cook.

MAY BE MORE APPEALS

Appellate Court's Recognition of Renshaw Put Him In.

In Circuit Court this week Judge Cook dismissed the suit of David Smith against John M. Renshaw, involving the office of Sheriff of Christian county. Smith had surrendered the office to Renshaw, who became the acting Sheriff and recognized by the decision of the Court of Appeals Tuesday in the writ of prohibition. An appeal was granted and it has not yet been decided whether it will be prosecuted.

Lawyers are not agreed as to whether or not Mr. Smith can appeal to the people to recover his office. He is expected to run for Sheriff if eligible, if not to run for County Judge against Judge Prowse, who removed him. Circuit Court has adjourned.

NEW WHEAT

Worth Eighty-Five Cents on Local Market.

The local mills are paying eighty-five cents for new wheat, grading no. 2. The crop is being threshed with a rush and much of it has already been marketed here. The grain is in much better condition than was expected from reports received from over the country a few weeks ago and the crop is turning out well.

PRES. C. M. BARNETT.

Farmers Generally are Urged to Attend the Meeting.

Esq. H. C. Hensley, county chairman, is arranging for a big farmers' meeting July 6.

"A great rally of the Society of Equity will be held at the court house the first Monday in July.

Arrangements have been made to have C. M. Barnett, National President, and J. Campbell Cantrell, of Georgetown, Ky., present and address the people. All local societies are not only invited but urged to turn out and hear these gentlemen. No man can afford to stay away. Justice to himself and those he holds dearest demands that he stop the plow in the furrow and be here to hear things that are for his good. It is the duty of every citizen to take an interest in political affairs, but the paramount duty of the farmer is to help himself and those of the same calling. It is more than the call of citizenship, as self-preservation is a law of nature.

The meeting will be called to order promptly at 10:00 o'clock Monday morning in the Circuit Court room. Farmers and everybody are most cordially invited.

Mr. Barnett and Mr. Cantrell will also address the people at night and explain the plans of the Society of Equity in detail.

All of the immigrants who come to New York are not passengers. The cabins brought 14,100 last year.

Home Notes.

In cleaning ribbons it is better not to throw them at all. Sponge with gasoline or ether and wrap around a large bottle.

Never fill a lamp completely. If it is filled in a cold room and then taken to a warm one expansion will occur and the oil will overflow on the sides.

When a candle is too small for the socket of the candlestick and there is no time to make a paper filter, light the candle and drop some of the melted grease into the socket, then quickly stick the candle in, and it will remain firm as soon as the grease hardens.

The Gamy Trout.

It spawns on the reefs. It is found on both continents. It is now artificially propagated. It belongs to the same genus as does the salmon.

When transported to warm waters it becomes fat and lazy. Mr. Fisherman likes it because of its very sporty proclivities.

It is at its splendid best in cool, sparkling mountain streams. There are many varieties in both western and eastern waters.

It is omnivorous. Everything from jackknives to cornucopias has been found in its stomach.—Philadelphia Record.

Current Comment.

The only way to tame that fellow Castro would be to import, naturalize and assimilate him and then elect him to congress.—Philadelphia Ledger.

For a fleet that was said to be full of blowholes and other infirmities the American battleships are giving a pretty fair imitation of sea worthiness.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

And now a physician comes forward to say that "that tired feeling" is hereditary. It is pleasant to live in an age when it is possible to blame so many of our faults and failings upon our ancestors.

TO AID FARMERS

Uncle Sam to Act as Employment Agent Through Postmasters.

Through the Department of Commerce and Labor and the Post-office Department, Secretary Strauss and Postmaster General Meyer have inaugurated a plan of service which it is hoped will relieve farmers and others in this country from embarrassment in getting help. The details are being worked out by T. V. Powderly and Assistant Postmaster General De Graw. The plan contemplates a general distribution of admitted aliens and other persons seeking employment. There are being forwarded to postmasters throughout the United States packages of cards, with return attachments for distribution to farmers and others who are likely to need the services of farm or other laborers or mechanics, and who may obtain the character of help required by mailing the return information card, properly filled out, without payment of postage.

For this service, no charge is to be made or fee accepted either from employer or employee. In case where labor is not needed at this particular time the applications may be retained by prospective employers for future use. The work of selecting suitable laborers will be given especial attention by experts.

HENRY BACON.

Must Cough Up $30,000 Excess Charges On Printing.

Frankfort, Ky., June 26.—Henry Bacon, former public printing contractor, is hit hard by the court of appeals. Bacon charged the State $30,000 for a job of work, but the commission allowed him but $20,000 on his claim and referred the bill to the Attorney General, who approved it all but one item, involving $950.

The opinion of the court of appeals, which was written by Judge Lassing, says Bacon was only entitled to $4,000 for the books, and gives judgment against him, in favor of the State, for $23,992.99, with interest from August, 1902. This really makes the amount of the judgment over $32,000, as the interest for six years is over $8,000.

The court releases Bacon's bondsman, George and John A. Fulton, from liability.

DEMOCRATIC PLANS.

Urey Woodson Is Good For Another Term as National Committeeman.

According to the present plans the delegates from Kentucky to the Democratic National Convention, to be held at Denver, on July 7, will meet in Denver on Monday, July 6, and re-elect Urey Woodson National Committeeman and Ollie James Chairman of the delegation.

STATE COMMITTEE TO ORGANIZE
The new Democratic State Committee will not be organized until after the Denver Convention is held. It is understood that under the new regime the meetings of the State committees will be held in Louisville and in Lexington. At the first meeting, the new committeemen will formally elect Henry R. Prewitt chairman and George Spear, of Lawrenceburg, who is a candidate for secretary, claims to have enough votes to win. Many Democrats are urging that the new committee establish permanent headquarters in Louisville just as the Republicans have done. It is said that this will be one of the first questions that the new chairman, Mr. Prewitt, will present to the committees. At the first meeting of the committees it is not improbable that a campaign committee will be named to take charge of the fight for Bryan in the State.

Honolulu, June 25.—The officers and Jackies on the battleship fleet are doomed at last to a disappointment on their cruise, for an official ban has been put on the Hula-Hula, the Hawaiian dance with which the dusky maidens of the South Seas entertain visitors and which the tars are longing to see.

Rear Admiral Sperry will have none of it, and accordingly the grass-skirted maidens with seed anklets and armlets and floral bangles have been eliminated from the entertainment program. The dusky maidens were preparing to give Admiral Sperry and the sailors the time of their lives at the last American port they will visit for months.

"He has spoken face to face before all question to more hearers than has any other man in the world's history."

BY ONE who traveled with William Jennings Bryan during the presidential campaigns of 1896 and 1900, and there is no doubt as to the truth of the statement.

The purpose of this article is briefly to sketch the life of Mr. Bryan up to the age of thirty-six, when he was nominated by the Democratic party for the presidency of the United States. It is a life possible only to American politics, and, whether or not Mr. Bryan shall reach the presidency, it is an interesting chapter in United States political history.

The town of Salem, Ill., is the birthplace of Bryan. Judge Allen C. Bryan, a substantial, intellectual settler from Virginia, was his father. Maria Elizabeth Jennings was his mother's maiden name. The child was born March 19, 1856. Judge Bryan lived on a farm near the edge of town. He had nine children, of whom William Jennings is the fourth. The boy grew up outdoors, drinking the daily medicine of sunshine and the open air. His physical constitution, a marvel of robustness and energy, came by inheritance the party leaders offered him the nomination for the lieutenant governorship of Nebraska. He declined the offer, but made a stumping campaign for the ticket throughout the state.

The next year, 1880, the young Democracy thrust upon the young Democratic from Illinois the nomination for congressman from the First district. J. Sterling Morton, who is his time was father of Arbor day and a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, had been defeated in the race for congress from that district in 1888 by a Republican majority of more than 3,000 votes. Scarcely anybody expected young Bryan to win. He was not so very sanguine himself, but he made an oratorical campaign and defeated Congressman Connelley by nearly 7,000 votes. In Omaha, where Connelley lived, Bryan was sneered at as "that Lincoln boy." It was the reaction against the new McKinley tariff that elected Bryan—and the silver tongue of the Lincolnian lad.

So at thirty Bryan was chosen to the national house of representatives. He delivered his first speech in the house the 12th of March, 1892, on the subject of free wool. Senator Burrows of Michigan, temporary chairman of this year's Republican national convention, declared that it was the best speech on the tariff he ever had heard. Newseditorship after a fierce legal fight against the advertising contract. He was nominated for the senate in the unanimous vote of the state convention, despite the fact that many of them disagreed with him on the silver coinage issue. With John M. Thurston, the leading Republican candidate for the senate, Bryan engaged in two joint debates, having challenged Thurston. The forensic duels took place in Lincoln and Omaha. The latter was the sole topic of discussion. Bryan defended the Wilson tariff, which as a member of the ways and means committee he had helped to create. At Lincoln the enthusiasm was such that Bryan was carried from the platform outside and down into the street, where howling mobs of "overton" admirers awaited him. Thurston was elected by the legislature. Mr. Bryan remained a private citizen. He had challenged William McKinley to a joint debate on the tariff, but the Ohio tariff builder declined. Mr. McKinley was destined to meet the Nebraskaan in a broader contest a little later.

In the meantime Mr. Bryan was happy at home with his little family, the helpful wife and three children. The children now are grown up. Mr. Bryan held no office whatever. He had made his father a grandfather. William junior is eighteen, and Miss Grace is a budding belle of seventeen years.

Young Mrs. Leavitt herself is something of a politician. She has been elected a delegate to the Democratic state convention in Colorado, her home being in Denver. Young William is a student in the Nebraska State university at Lincoln. Miss Grace, who in the event of her father's election to the presidency will become "the young lady of the White House," is at home with her estimable mother on the Bryan farm near Lincoln, known as "Fairview," where the head of the family some years ago built a handsome residence. Prior to that the family had occupied a modest cottage in Lincoln, where Mr. Bryan returned to his law practice after his unsuccessful campaign for the senate.

When in 1896 the Republican convention which nominated McKinley for president met in St. Louis, William J. Bryan held no office whatever. He still had a connection with the Omaha paper, and he went to St. Louis as a press correspondent. At the Platters hotel the clerk looked over the plainly garbed young man who signed "W. J. Bryan" on the register and made him pay in advance. The clerk put Bryan in a room with seven Republicans. Under date of June 10 a correspondent of the New York Tribune sent to his paper from St. Louis this highly interesting paragraph:

Ex-Congressman William J. Bryan, the leader of the free silver wing of the Nebraska Democracy, was one of yesterday's arrivals. The appearance of Bryan in a hotel corridor in consultation with several Republicans from free silver states of the far west excited much comment. In response to a question concerning his mission Mr. Bryan remarked: "I have nothing to say now except that these gentlemen here will vote next November voting the same ticket."

Senator Henry M. Teller of Colorado and others were the free silver Republicans under instant by the Tribune. R. A. Rogers, Gen. Mgr.

MISS GRACE BRYAN.

prediction by Mr. Bryan that they would be voting the same ticket with him in November, for they walked out of the Republican national convention when the gold standard platform was adopted and aligned themselves with the free silver Democracy.

But neither the New York correspondent nor the free silver seceders nor the Nebraska correspondent and free silver leader himself could foretell that the seceders would vote for William Jennings Bryan as the presidential candidate on the ticket which was to be nominated at Chicago a few weeks later.

and was nurtured by wholesome and healthful environment in boyhood. Bryan attended the public schools in Salem until he was fifteen, when he entered Whipple academy at Jacksonville, Ill. Two years later he matriculated in Illinois college, in the same city, from which institution he was graduated with honors at the age of twenty-one. During his college course his oratorical abilities made him prominent in middle western collegiate life. He won the honor of representing his school in the state contest of college orators. He won that contest and represented Illinois in 1881 at the Interstate oratorical contest, held at Chicago, Ill., where he achieved second honors. He was class orator at graduation.

Jacksonville has a female seminary. In that school Miss Mary E. Baird was a student while young Bryan was in Illinois college. She was from Perry, Ill., and was of excellent family and an ambitious student. A bright young man and a bright young woman attending college in the same town sometimes emphasize the aphorism that like attracts like. Perhaps that explains why Bryan, after attending the Union law college in Chicago and reading law at the same time in the office of Judge Lyman Trumbull, the celebrated associate of Abraham Lincoln, returned to Jacksonville to begin the practice of his profession. Bryan and Miss Baird were married shortly after his return. Mrs. Bryan studied law in order to assist her husband in his professional work. After the Bryans removed to Lincoln, Neb., in 1887 Mrs. Bryan was admitted to the bar. Mr. Bryan became junior partner in the law firm of Talbot & Bryan. He believed there was more opportunity for a rising young lawyer in a new state—a belief assuredly well grounded in his own case.

Bryan plunged into politics in the spring of 1888, and that became his life vocation instead of the law. He was elected a delegate to the Democratic state convention at Omaha, where he made a speech strongly advocating free trade; also he made a reputation as a speaker. He was only twenty-eight years old, yet the very next year papers of all political persuasions called it a masterpiece. The chairman of the ways and means committee was William M. Springer of Illinois. Springer was so delighted with Bryan's free word talk that he procured the appointment of the young Nebraskaan to his committee. Old graybeards have sat in the house for a generation without achieving that coveted honor. Here was a youngster member so honored in his first term. And when Bryan was returned to congress for a second term he was continued on that most important committee.

In the interim the Nebraska districts had been reapportioned so that Omaha was eliminated from the First district. The district in its new shape was conceded to be Republican by about 3,500. Judge Allen W. Field of Lincoln, one of the ablest and most popular Republicans in the state, was nominated to run against Bryan. He resigned from the bench, so sanguine of success was he, but Bryan beat him by 140 votes.

When President Cleveland delivered an extra session of congress in the summer of 1893 to push through the repeal of the Sherman silver bullion purchasing act of 1890, the Democratic president of the old school unwittingly gave to the man of destiny in the new school of Democracy an altitudinous stepping stone toward the presidency. Bryan of Nebraska, and thirty-three, delivered in the house on the 19th of August a speech against the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, which was heard by the entire nation. The whole house and most of the senate heard it. When Bryan ceased speaking he was picked up by enemies and friends alike and borne around the hall on the shoulders of enthusiastic who liked a ripping line oration when they heard it regardless as to whether it suited their politics. Nobody disputed that it was the greatest speech of the extra session.

Sophy of Kravonia.

By ANTHONY HOPE,
Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

In vain will the readers of this tale of romantic love and brilliant daring search the maps of the world for the picturesque land of Kravonia, wherein lovely, fascinating Sophy and her mysterious Red Star played their parts. This much we may tell him before he embarks on his voyage to Kravonia. But we may assure him that when he reluctantly parts with Sophy, some time scullery maid of Morpingham, Essex, England, later spiritualistic medium of Paris, France, and still later of high rank in Slavna and Volseni, in Kravonia, the country of her adoption will be to him, like Zenda and Grausark, more real than are many of the smaller, actual kingdoms of the earth. Sad and tragic in some of its aspects is the story of Sophy of Kravonia, but its pathos is so lightened by devoted loyalty, hardy bravery and tender, self-sacrificing affection that at the end the reader will surely feel its telling has not been unworthy of the master hand of its famous chronicler.

He expressed exactly the view of the two great neighbors, though by no means in the language which their official communications adopted.

Stenovic knew their views very well. He had also received a pretty plain intimation from Stafnitz that the colonel considered the carrying of the guns to Slavna as a purely military task, appertaining not to the ministry of state, but to the officer commanding the garrison in the capital. Stafnitz was that officer, and he proposed himself to go to Kolskoi. Suleiman's tower, he added, would be left in the trustworthy hands of Captain Zerkovitch. Again Stenovic fully understood. Indeed, the colonel was almost brutally candid. His letter was nothing less than plain word that power lay with the sword and that the sword was in his own hand. Stenovic had got rid of King Sergius only to fall under the rule of Dictator Stafnitz. Was that to be the end of it?

Stenovic preferred any other issue. The ideal thing was his own rule in the name of young Alexis, with such diplomatic honoring and humoring of Countess Ellenburg as might prove necessary. That was plainly impossible so long as Stafnitz was master of the army. It would become finally hopeless if Stenovic held Suleiman's tower till Stafnitz brought the guns to Slavna. What, then, was Stenovic's alternative? For he was not yet brought to giving up the game as totally lost. His name stood high, though his real power tottered on a most insecure foundation. He could get good terms for his resistance. There was time to make friends with the man-mountain of unrighteousness.

Privately, as became invalids, without the knowledge of any one outside their confidential entourage, the representatives of the two great neighbors received General Stenovic. They were believed to have concluded here that in the event of any further disorders in Kravonia intervention could not be avoided. Troops were on either frontier, ready for such an emergency. A joint occupation would be forced on the allies. With a great deal of sorrow no doubt the general felt himself driven to accept this conclusion.

Many ills come from impure blood. Can't have pure blood with sluggish digestion, lazy liver and sluggish bowels. Burdock Blood-Bitters strengthens the stomach, bowels and liver, and purifies the blood.

FOR FOURTEEN YEARS

Michigan Girl Does Not Lose a Day From School.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 23.—Miss Zora Inman, of this city, has just completed a continuous attendance at school for fourteen years without being absent or tardy. At the commencement exercises this year the board of education presented her with a silver medal in recognition of her attainments.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulents, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulents bring easy, regular passage of the bowels.

Given Ten Years.

Benton, Ky., June 23.—Lon Holly was found guilty of manslaughter

He had just requested Stafnitz to fetch the guns to Slavna. He left the colonel full discretion in the matter. His only desire was to insure the tranquility of the capital and to show Volseni how hopeless it was to maintain the fanciful and absurd claims of Baroness Dobrava. The representative, it must be supposed, approved this attitude and wished the general all success. At a later date his efforts to secure order and to avoid the inevitable but regrettable loss of any further disturbance were handsomely acknowledged by both powers. General Stenovic had not Stafnitz's nerve and dash, but was a man of considerable resource.

A man of good feeling, too, to judge from another step he took—whether with the compliance of the representatives or entirely of his own motion has never become known. He waited till Colonel Stafnitz, who returned a civil and almost effusive reply to his communication, had set off to fetch the guns, which, as has been seen, had been unloaded from the railway and at Kolskoi, three days' journey up the Krath; then he entered into communication with Volseni. He sent Volseni a private and friendly warning. What was the use of Volseni holding out when the big guns were coming? It could mean only hopeless resistance, more disorder, more bloodshed. Let Volseni and the lady whose claims he supported consider that he warned in time and acknowledge King Alexis.

This letter he addressed to Zerkovitch. There were insuperable diplomatic difficulties in the way of addressing it to Sophy directly. "Madam I may not call you, and mistress I am loath to call you," said Queen Elizabeth to the archbishop's wife. It was just a case of that sort of difficulty. He could not call her queen of Kravonia, and she would be offended if he called her Baroness Dobrava. So the letter went to Zerkovitch, and it went by the hand of one of Zerkovitch's friends, so anxious was the general to be as friendly and conciliatory as circumstances permitted.

Much to his surprise, considerably to his alarm, Lepage was sent for to the general's private residence on the evening of the day on which Colonel Stafnitz set out for Kolskoi to fetch the guns.

Stenovic greeted him cordially, smoothed away his apprehension, acquainted him with the nature of his mission and with the gist of the letter which he was to carry. Stenovic seemed now to place no doubt that for some time back, possibly because he had got Stafnitz quietly out of Slavna.

"Big M. Zerkovitch to give the letter to Baroness Dobrava," he called her that to Lepage as soon as possible and to urge her to listen to it. Add that we shall be ready to treat her with every consideration—any title in reason and any provision in reason too. It's all in my letter, but repeat it on my behalf, Lepage."

"I shouldn't think she'd take either title or money, general," said Lepage bluntly.

"You think she's disinterested? No doubt, no doubt! She'll be the more ready to see the uselessness of prolonging her present attitude." He grew almost vehement as he laid his hand on a large map which was spread out Lepage looked at the minister thoughtfully, on the table in front of him. "Look here, Lepage. This is Monday, Wednesday evening Colonel Stafnitz will be at Kolskoi—here!" He put his finger by the spot. "On Thursday morning he'll start back. The barges must wait, and—yes—I think he'll have his guns here by Sunday, less than a week from now. Yes, on Thursday night he ought to reach Evens, on Friday he'll be at Slavna, on Saturday the lock at Miklevni. Yes, on Saturday the lock at Miklevni! That would bring him here on Sunday. Yes, the lock at Miklevni on Saturday, I think." He looked up at Lepage almost imploringly. "If she hesitates, show her that. They're bound to be here in less than a week."

Lepage cocked his head on one side and looked at the minister thoughtfully. It all sounded very convincing. Colonel Stafnitz would be at the lock at Miklevni on Saturday and on Sunday with the guns at Slavna. And of course, arduous though the transport would be, they could be before Volseni in two or three days more. It was really no use resisting.

Stenovic passed a purse over to Lepage. "For your necessary expenses," he said. Lepage took up the purse, which felt well filled, and pocketed it. "The baroness mayn't fully appreciate what I've been saying," added Stenovic. "But Lepage knows every inch of the river. He'll make it quite plain if she asks him about it. And present her with my sincere respects and sympathy—my sympathy with her as a private person, of course. You mustn't commit me in any way, Lepage."

"I think," said Lepage, "that you're capable of looking after that department yourself, general. But aren't you making the colonel go a little too fast?"

WILL GIVE UP HOTEL LATHAM

Manager J. M. Brewer Will Not Extend His Lease
July 1.

RETURN TO PRINCETON.

Came Here March 4th For a
Trial of About Four Months.

Manager J. N. Brewer, of Hotel Latham, has given formal notice that he will surrender the hotel July 1. Mr. Brewer took charge March 1 for a trial term of four months, and he says that he has found that he can make more money out of his Palace Hotel at Princeton, which has been closed. He expects to return to Princeton, move his hotel to a site near by the city or the new depot and resume business there. In the meantime Hotel Latham is on the lookout for another manager. The hotel has been much improved since Mr. Brewer took charge and there is general regret that he will give it up.

TUBERCULOSIS

Causes Death of Walter Gilliland.

Walter W. Gilliland is dead. He passed away at the home of his brother-in-law, G. C. Bowles, proprietor of the Crofton hotel, aged 44 years.

Mr. Gilliland was a son of Esq. and Mrs. Alex Gilliland, of this city, and was reared here. He was engaged in business on Ninth street, in this city for several years, with the late Clarence E. Kennedy. Later he went to Louisville, where he lived for six or eight years. He married in the Falls City, and after the death of his wife, which occurred seven years ago, he went to Denver, Col., to engage in business. His health failed and he came to Crofton about two months ago.

He is survived by two children. The remains were taken to Louisville and interred in Cave Hill cemetery by the side of those of his wife.

OLD TIME BONDS

Dr. E. S. Stuart Finds City
Bonds Issued In the Year 1870.

Long Since Matured and
Their Existence a Surprise to the Owner Himself.

While looking through a bundle of old papers in his safety box at the Bank of Hopkinsville Thursday, Dr. E. S. Stuart, of Fairview, found six $100 bonds of the city of Hopkinsville, past due eighteen years, with 25 interest coupons attached. The bonds show a face value of $187.50 each, or an aggregate of $1,125 Oct. 1, 1890. They were issued for 20 years. They were signed by E. H. Hopper, chairman, and Jno. C. Latham, clerk, both long since dead.

All of the issue that could be found were paid when they matured in 1890, and as no financial exhibit was shown in those days, the bonds were not known to be in existence. They were part of a small issue and no one connected with city affairs now has any recollection of the way in which the bonds became lost sight of. It is probable that they were called in and never presented for payment.

THOS. TAGGART STARTS BOOM

For Kern, and Says Indiana
Man Will Get Second Place.

FEW CONTESTS FILED.

Greatly Pleased With the Arrangements at Denver.

Denver, Colorado, June 26.—Thos. Taggart, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, came to town to-day, bringing along a vice presidential boom which he put forth with much enthusiasm.

"Bryan will be nominated on the first ballot, without a doubt, and his running mate will be John W. Kern, of Indiana. Mr. Kern will be placed in nomination by John E. Lamb or B. F. Shively, both of that state, and his nomination ought to follow."

This was the greeting Mr. Taggart gave to newspaper men. A little later, when he had been whizzed to the Auditorium—the convention hall—he exhibited little less enthusiasm.

"This arrangement for the convention is fine," he said. "I cannot see how it could be improved upon. The Auditorium is a wonderful piece of architecture, and everything seems to be in tip-top shape."

Chairman Taggart has called a meeting of the National Committee for Saturday, July 4, when the principal business will be to hear and determine the contests for seats as delegates which have been filed. These are comparatively few in number.

Help Your Town.

When you pull down the town in which you live, you are pulling down yourself. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It will certainly do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions—including the printing office.—Franklin Favorite.

NEW FEATURE

To be Added to the Tobacco Association.

Paducah, Ky., June 26.—While in the city General Manager Felix G. Ewing, of the Tobacco Association, stated that the association controlled 55,000 hogheads of tobacco, 22,000 of which had been sold up to June 20. The tobacco sold was composed principally of lugs and low grade leaf, which brought more money than the entire 55,000 hogheads would have brought five years ago.

The board of directors is considering a new feature to the association, which promises to increase the membership. No intimation was given as to what this feature would be.

Attention K. of P.

You are earnestly requested to meet Sunday morning, June 28th, at 10:15 o'clock, sharp, at the Castle Hall of Evergreen Lodge No. 38, Knights of Pythias. The Lodge, by unanimous vote, has decided to attend memorial services at the Ninth Street Presbyterian church, and will go in a body. Rev. Chas. L. Nourse will deliver a sermon appropriate to the occasion.
